

Szanto Displays New Watches at SHOT Show

Posted on February 22, 2014 by Wilson

Once again this year, I had a chance to converse with Jennifer Leonard, the brand manager for Szanto Watches, at their SHOT Show booth. The display had new designs by owner Barry Cohen which were in keeping with his vision of vintage timepieces “rediscovered.” While all the watches you see here may not make it into production, they definitely show a progression from the first offerings from last year.

I really liked the tank watch's looks, though I admit to not really being all warm and fuzzy about rectangular timepieces. The bronze divers were also stunning. They had a steampunk aura that I think will make them popular. Ms. Leonard said she will keep me apprised of the new developments as they come.

by Wilson